1. Introduction

Political party is one of the important elements in modern democracies. This course aims to help students understand the origins of political parties and political party systems. Also, students learn the structures and functions of political parties. Political parties play a key role in policy making. This course deals with the roles of political parties in modern democracies. Another topic of this course is congress. Congress is one of the core branches in democracies. Students delve into several basic questions regarding congress: What does congress do? What roles does congress play in democracies? What is the relationship between political party and congress? Students learn concepts and theories regarding political party and congress. Based on the concepts and theories, we discuss representation and democracy.
